BONALDO

Tara

Designer: Giuseppe Viganò

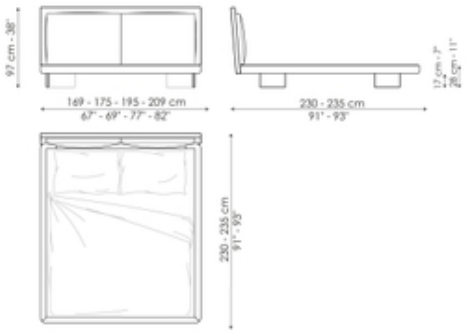

The design of the Tara modern bed frame was developed by Giuseppe Viganò starting from a concept based on a quest for essentiality and rigour: elements onto which a level of comfort has been grafted that combines minimal aesthetics with attention to the smallest details. The composition is characterized by essential volumes, united by the primary rectangular geometry but differing both in proportions as well as in upholstery materials. The bed's slender and linear support structure draws attention to the significant role played by the soft and welcoming headboard with its two padded fabric cushions. The design is made even more interesting and attractive by the covering of the edge of the headboard in leather, as well as the feet.
